March never ran more true to form than now.

Germany wants little or nothing from Rumania except the tremendously rich oil fields and about everything else that Rumania has of any value.

Secretary Baker was fortunate to have a wine cellar to resort to when the German airmen raided Paris. Some members of the cabinet, however, would probably have disdained to take refuge in such a place.

For the purposes of demonstration it would be interesting to have that new concrete merchant vessel go against the torpedoes of a submarine. The impact would furnish a proof whether the claim of unsinkability is abstract or concrete.

In its flood this week, Hornell, N. Y., got an advance idea of what a great many valley communities are likely to suffer before the immense accumulation of snow is deposited in the sea and the lakes and the ponds. The work of the earlier thaws of February and March has been largely undone by the heavy storms that followed.

The new St. Johnsbury Caledonian edited and managed by W. D. Pelley, who recently purchased the plant of the old Caledonian, made its appearance on the afternoon of March 13 and was welcomed by The Times like the return of a long absent friend. The Evening Caledonian is at present a six-page paper but no doubt will be enlarged to eight pages if the business accorded the publisher warrants the change. It would seem at the outset that the merchants of St. Johnsbury are to give good support because the columns of the initial issue were reasonably well occupied by advertising matter. The news columns, too, carry so much interesting reading matter that the support of a considerable number of subscribers ought to be forthcoming. Thus Editor Pelley starts off rather auspiciously under conditions which must have been rather depressing in view of the fact that he was starting to build a newspaper on the ruins of another publication; but he was wise in making his daily an afternoon instead of a morning newspaper, as the former Caledonian was. We hope that Editor Pelley will meet with success in his venture.

WASHINGTON

Dr. Hutchinson Leaves Saturday for War Service—Farewell Party in His Honor.

Dr. William O. Hutchinson, our physician here, has enlisted in the service of the United States and expects to leave Saturday for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and for this reason nearly 100 of his friends, by an invitation from Washington lodge, I. O. O. F., of which the doctor is a member gathered at schoolhouse hall Wednesday evening to bid a farewell, which was sorrowfully given him. Card playing and, later, dancing, was the amusement for the evening. Refreshments of bananas and apples were served.

L. L. Slocum is at his farm in Berlin again this week.

Fred Demas has moved his family to a tenement in the Johannesen block.

L. D. Tillotson, who went to the Mary Fletcher hospital last week, submitted to another operation and is therefore confined there for a few days. He expects to return home the last of the week or the very first of next week.

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. George D. Palmer.

The village grammar school closed Friday, March 8. Edith Bressette, Meryl Eastman, Lyle Downing, Jesse Bressette, Lloyd Downing, Durward Gallant, Lawrence Seaver and Leyland Wood had a perfect record. Theodore Eastman and Doris Wood were each absent only one day, and Merton Eastman, Russell Pratt and Hobart Seaver were absent two days each. Charles Pickering had a perfect attendance up to the last week, when he was kept at home by the quarantine for chickenpox. Whole number of pupils, 28; average attendance, 25 24-43. For several years it has been customary in this school to provide a treat for the afternoon of the last day of the winter term, by each member paying a small sum of money. This year it was voted to subscribe the same amount of money, but give it to the Red Cross. It amounted to $1.50. They have also pledged themselves as members of a junior auxiliary to the Red Cross.

Public dance in Lassasso's hall Saturday night, March 16, three-piece orchestra; admission 75c; ladies free. Everybody come.—adv.
